

YOUR IMPACT IN 2020

KEREN HAYESOD'S ANNUAL REPORT
FOLLOWING A HISTORICAL YEAR

Dear Friends,

This Impact Report comes at the end of a year that presented unique and unparalleled challenges for Israel and our global family. As we reflect back on the historical 2020, we are proud of the unity and strength we have shown each other and the people of Israel.

As is evident in the pages to follow, Keren Hayesod's assistance is incredibly necessary and transforms lives. Thanks to you, our committed donors and supporters, we are continuing our fundraising activities in the new world of lockdowns, masks and social distancing. Our efforts ensure that we are able to provide Israel's most vulnerable with critical and life-changing resources. In our changing reality, we are facing new demands and remain committed to enabling our projects to deliver their programs and interventions at maximum capacity. Our support is needed now more than ever in these difficult times.

We have witnessed a new depth in the commitment of our supporters. Travel restrictions limited our ability to meet in person this year, and our annual World Conference ultimately had to be cancelled. The same year that we were meant to gather in celebration of Keren Hayesod's 100th anniversary saw us renew our creative outputs. We marked our centennial with an online broadcast. Our first-ever crowdfunding campaigns across Europe and Australia raised more than $4.9 million from 8,000 donors in 3 days. Thousands of supporters around the world have also joined us virtually for webinars and interactive online gatherings.

We are inspired by our global family's unwavering commitment to our people. We are all facing new obstacles, but, as is clear from the outstanding achievements in this report, our dedication to helping Israel has only deepened.

We wish to thank The Jewish Agency for Israel, our strategic partner. Our work together has been of crucial importance to the people of Israel and Jews worldwide during this unprecedented year.

We also thank each and everyone one of our donors for their contributions and gifts. We have shown again this year that we are a nation of one people supporting each other from near and far and in all circumstances. Together, we are united for the people of Israel.

Wishing all of you and your families health and safety,

FOR THE NEW IMMIGRANTS

The State of Israel was founded on the spirit of immigrants. Aliyah and absorption hold great importance and remain a top priority for Keren Hayesod.

Together with you and our strategic partner, The Jewish Agency for Israel, we have placed significant emphasis on supporting all aspects of the aliyah process: from pre-aliyah to the arrival of new olim and their absorption into their new homes and surroundings.

Thanks to your support, we are able to ensure that olim are able to enjoy absorption centres and ulpan opportunities.

At our ulpan, new immigrants learn Hebrew and meet others going through the same process as them. Residential ulpan offer added benefits, such as a first home in Israel, extracurricular programs promoting Jewish identity and Israeli culture and assistance in helping new immigrants to find their next steps in Israel – housing, employment, further education and more.

Your generosity also helps us provide olim with career advancement opportunities through A Profession for Life. Olim benefit from the program's tracks for licensing and relicensing in various fields, including medicine, engineering and technical specialities. Participants benefit from both general Hebrew classes and additional courses that help them gain the necessary Hebrew for their chosen professions, training in their specialties and benefiting from courses to relicense themselves as doctors and nurses in Israel. They and their families also benefit from housing in absorption centres and help for the entire family as new immigrants to Israel. They are further assisted after the program to find meaningful employment and their first home after leaving the absorption centre.

ALIYAH CONTINUES IN THE MIDST OF A GLOBAL PANDEMIC

We have witnessed historic and incredible immigration this past year. Even during a global health crisis, many are continuing to fulfill their dream of making Israel home. Keren Hayesod and our supporters remain strongly committed to ensuring that all who wish are able to make aliyah and flourish in Israel.

We are proud to have partnered on special aliyah flights this year. Operation Home saw the first-ever flight chartered from Mexico to Israel. Together with The Jewish Agency and HaNoar HaTzioni, this project brought 50 new immigrants to Israel. We also brought home 140 immigrants from Ukraine in partnership with Christians for Israel (CVI). These and all the aliyah flights supported by Keren Hayesod have enabled aliyah to continue during this already historical year.

In late 2020, the Government of Israel approved the immediate aliyah of 2,000 Ethiopians by Spring 2021. Despite harsh conditions, the Jews in Ethiopia have maintained a strong sense of identity. Their arrival, as part of Operation Tzur Israel, will be among the most emotional as many have been waiting years to reunite with family. We are working with The Jewish Agency and Ministry of Aliyah and Integration to make their aliyah and absorption successful.

Unique to our new reality, we are now supporting new immigrants facing quarantines and periods of self-isolation. New immigrants typically lack a strong support network. Together with our partners, we are supporting new immigrants during the difficult days and weeks in isolation. Staff and participants at our absorption centres are helping new olim fight loneliness and distributing hot meals, tablets and other essentials.

FOR THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL

Keren Hayesod is committed to ensuring that all children in Israel, regardless of their social and economic backgrounds, benefit from equal access to quality education, resources and support. We prioritize programs that help Israel's disadvantaged children and youth to succeed. Together with The Jewish Agency for Israel, our global family helps provide resources for critical interventions at all stages of development and of varied kinds, from mentorship to extracurricular learning that will help them advance in the future.

We support Youth Futures, a national project that empowers children (ages 6-13 years old) and their families. The program provides personalized attention, positive social experiences and educational enrichment that help participants to develop their strengths and bridge scholastic, social and cultural gaps.

The program is unique in its holistic model. Mentors build interventions together with other parts of the participants' support network, including their families, schools and communities. A study looking at children after three years of participation found that they had improved in all four spheres of focus that Youth Future is active: personal, social, family and academics. Among families, 85% claimed that they improved their tools and skills as parents and 83% reported an improvement in their relationships with their children.

CARING FOR OUR COMMUNITIES DURING THE PANDEMIC

Over the course of the crisis, we have been amazed to see incredible initiatives undertaken by the Youth Futures staff, families and participants.

The pandemic heralded in an unprecedented economic crisis. In an inspiring show of solidarity, Youth Futures mentors remained as committed as ever to their mentees and communities. They found new ways to provide crucial support for mentees and their families - phone calls, video chats and arranging for critical supplies and activities to be delivered to participants across the country. Israel's children benefited from inspiring leadership that cared for their well-being during these challenging times.

The participants themselves also took initiative. Youth Futures children prepared thank you packages for Israel's medical teams fighting on the front lines. They also joined the national efforts to encourage the public to wear masks. Youth Future's participants went from at-risk youth to warriors in a global health crisis.

*We want to be able to see our friends again and go to school.
That's why we need to look after ourselves and community.
Please put on masks and take care of yourselves.*

FOR THE YOUTH OF ISRAEL

We know the importance of investing in our youth. We are committed to helping them succeed and prioritize national projects that give Israel's teenagers the necessary education and interventions they need to go on to greater achievements.

In Israel today, integrating a technological curriculum into our children's education can have a transformative impact and give graduates more opportunities for career advancement and financial stability. We are proud to support the Net@ program, which brings this in-demand subject to students in Israel's periphery.

Net@ is one of the most effective agents of social mobility in Israel. Since 2003, the project has been helping underserved youth living in Israel's socioeconomic and geographic periphery to overcome the country's technological divide.

Net@ instills technological excellence and leadership skills for Israel's next generation. Net@ is the only long-term youth program in Israel that brings together Jewish, Muslim and Christian youth.

Net@ is a joint initiative of Keren Hayesod, The Jewish Agency, Cisco and Appleseeds.

We also support Youth Villages across the country. These unique educational centres provide critical integrations to help Israel's most at-risk youth. Our Youth Villages are often considered the last hope for these students and are distinctive in their capacity to help them achieve meaningful personal growth.

Youth Villages help students in secondary education to cope with integration difficulties, to break the cycle of poverty and to become contributing members of Israeli society. Students benefit from personalized interventions, therapeutic and psychological counselling and a remedial education in a supportive, residential home atmosphere.

NET@ STUDENTS PAY IT FORWARD DURING LOCKDOWN

With the onset of distance learning, Net@ developed a way to engage its students anew, providing a virtual framework not only for high-tech education but to address emotional issues and reduce loneliness.

Net@: On Air has helped to guarantee the sustainability and continuity of the youth movement. Discontinuing the project's activity would have led to massive drop-out rates, senior students not finishing their technological certification and difficulty recruiting students for the coming years.

Students also paid it forward. In partnership with the Ministry of Social Equality, they developed Mitchabrim (Connection) as a new technology training and support centre, matching hundreds of capable volunteers, including Net@ youth, with individuals in need of one-on-one digital training. The program provides thousands of elderly, unemployed and other disadvantaged Israelis with much needed personalized support.

FOR THE ELDERLY OF ISRAEL

The shortage of low-rent housing in Israel imposes great hardships on many elderly Israelis who do not own their own homes. The situation is particularly severe for Holocaust survivors and immigrants from the Former Soviet Union, who have no assets and lack an extensive support system of family and friends. Welfare allocations are often far too inadequate to even rent the most basic apartment. Keren Hayesod and our supporters believe that everyone deserves to live with dignity and that's why we have prioritized our work with the Amigour Housing Management Company.

Amigour is Israel's leading operator of public and sheltered housing facilities and the key agent responding to this critical need. Thanks to Keren Hayesod donors, major building projects are underway to create additional apartments to meet the growing demand.

In addition to affordable housing and independent living, residents also benefit from a sense of community. Each residence has a dedicated staff, including a social worker, to help the residents and ensure that all their needs are met. Residents also benefit from a variety of programs, classes, trips around Israel, holiday celebrations and more. All of this is designed so that residents enjoy personal enrichment and dignified living.

SUPPORTING OUR ELDERLY THROUGH 2020

We are supporting Amigour throughout the pandemic to ensure that vulnerable elderly Israelis have the necessary assistance to manage during this difficult time. Together, we have provided an incredible amount of resources.

FOR THE PEOPLE OF ISRAEL'S PERIPHERY

The Negev and Galilee comprise 70% of Israel's territory, yet are home to only 30% of its population and produce only 8% of its economic output. Many residents of the periphery, including new immigrants, are cut off from the economic, cultural and educational opportunities that are available in the centre of the country. The widening socioeconomic gap poses a serious threat to the country's future. That's why, with the assistance of Keren Hayesod supporters, we prioritize projects like Choosing Tomorrow.

The program encourages young adults to live and contribute to communities in Israel's periphery. Choosing Tomorrow works with motivated university students to encourage and help them live in these areas for at least two years after graduating from academic institutions in the periphery. The program's diverse tracks engage students in medicine and engineering and those with interests in La'ad (supporting Holocaust survivors) and local engagement.

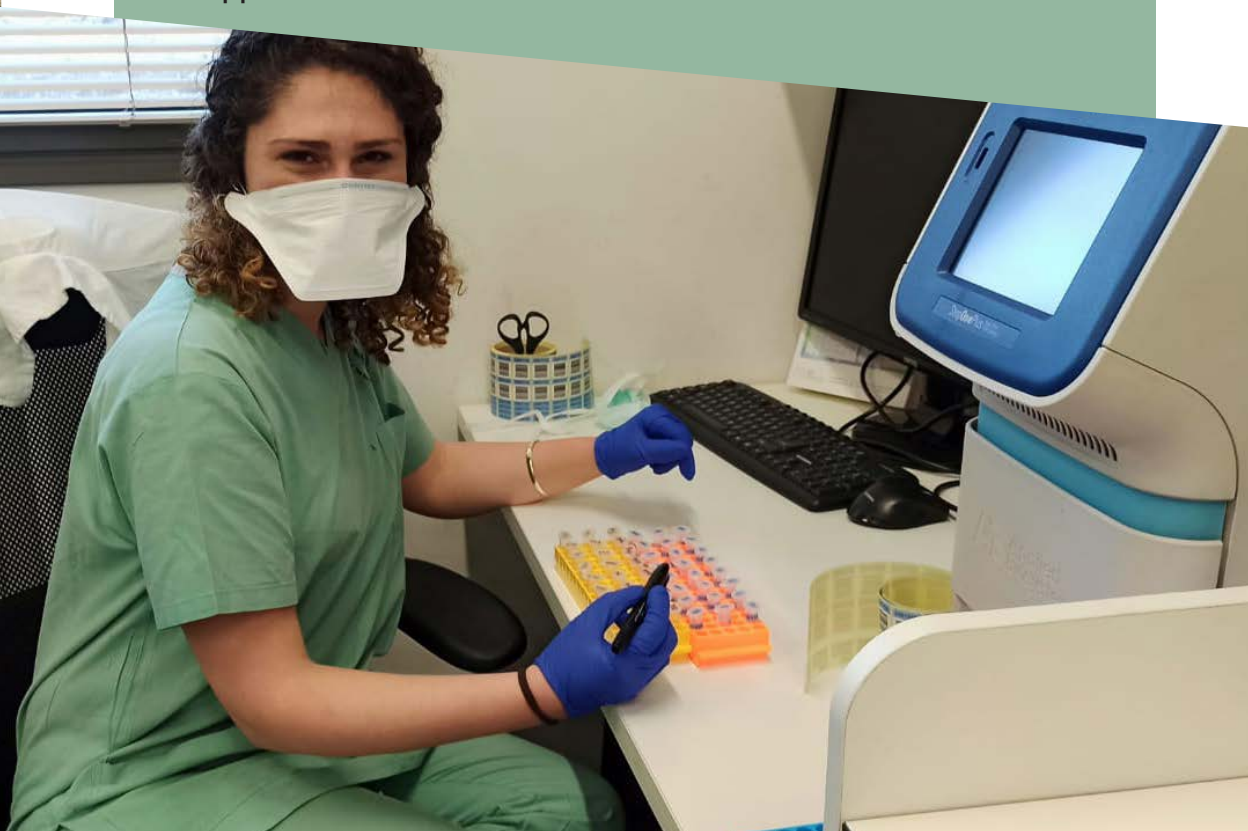

WE SALUTE FRONTLINE WORKERS

Choosing Tomorrow participants are celebrated for their passion of giving back to their local communities. Throughout this pandemic, we have seen these young leaders volunteer and help their fellow Israelis.

The program's medical community showed its dedication and commitment to our people. Our young doctors were active in the frontlines of the crisis - collecting samples from coronavirus patients, working in hospital emergency rooms, managing volunteers, looking after the children of hospital workers, delivering food packages and more.

Sarit, a medical student in Safed, co-founded Young Neighbourhood Doctors. The initiative aims to support children from families facing hardship. Young students and doctors teach them the basics about personal hygiene and social distancing. Sarit and her fellow volunteers provide essential education and help children gain a greater understanding of the people on the frontlines.

We applaud these brave men and women for their service and sacrifice.
